MR. MAGOO WENT to EMC's Homecoming Saturday, all decked out as part of the massive float of Circle K Club. The colorful entry won top prize for the best all-around Homecoming exhibit.

1958 Homecoming Called 'Best Ever'

Students, alumni and members of the 1958 Homecoming Committee termed this year's celebration "the best ever" as the three-day long event cruised to an end Sunday.

Warm weather with cloudless skies greeted the hundreds of alumni who came back Saturday for the big parade and game, which EMC won, 25-0. (See details on sports page.)

Residence halls dressed up their exteriors for the big day, and cider-and-donut parties were held in various places around campus.

Greek letter organizations greeted their alumni members at receptions in McKenny Hall and at fraternity houses.

By far the most colorful event of the day, however, was the big Homecoming Parade, which threaded its way through the campus streets and down to Michigan Ave. in the heart of Ypsilanti's business district.

Five floats were judged best in their category at the parade. Winners were the Circle K Club with a "Mr. Magoo" float in the organizations division; the EMC Players with a "Fantasia" theme in the Clubs divisions; Pi Kappa Phi and its "St. George and the Dragon" float in the fraternity division; Sigma Nu Phi in the sorority division; and Goodison Hall in the dormitory division.

For outside dormitory decorations, Downing Hall was judged best. The "Travelling Trophy" for the best overall exhibit was awarded to the Circle K Club for its huge float.

Honorable mention awards went to Munson Residence Hall for its outside decor and to the Women's League Queen's Float for the parade.

Homecoming concluded Saturday night with the gala dance in McKenny Hall, where three bands played in the ballroom and adjoining lounges for dancing.

Square Dance Friday

An all college dance, featuring square dancing and social dancing, will be held in the McKenny Hall ballroom on Friday, October 24, from 8:30 until 11:30 p.m.

Dave Palmer will serve as square dance caller for the affair, sponsored by the Student Religious Association. There is no admission, and all students may attend.

Women's League Hosts Convention

Women's League will host the State Women's League Convention to be held here at EMC on Saturday, November 15.

"Actions and Attitudes" will be the theme of the discussion groups which will be held at Strong Auditorium.

Representatives from several colleges in the state will lunch with EMC representatives at McKenny Hall, reported the co-chairmen, Elaine Potochan and Beverly Register.

Campus TV Classes Asked in '59 Budget

Funds for an experimental television teaching program have been requested by EMC as part of the $4,016,78 budget for 1959-60.

The sum of $57,975 is being sought to operate a pilot project in instructional closed-circuit TV. Classes in biological science and physics would originate in the new Quirk Dramatic Arts Building.

Conventional methods will be used in teaching other parallel sections in the same fields. The college would use the project to gather data on the teaching efficiency and the relative costs of teaching by the two different methods. The funds asked would both equip and pay the operating costs of the television portion of the program.

The main item in the four million dollar budget request is $3,331,711 for salaries and wages. About one-half of this is for salary increases, and the other is to finance twenty-six new staff positions.

The sum of $69,647 to be used for special equipment in the areas of science and mathematics was also included in the budget. If received, it will be used to equip laboratories in the biological sciences, physics, statistics, psychology, and chemistry fields.

"Over the past five years," President Elliott explained, "EMC has received less than half the educational equipment requested, and the equipment deficiencies, particularly in the sciences, are severely handicapping the college program."

The total budget request is based on an expected fall enrollment of 5,400. The enrollment this fall is 4,880.

Thieves Take 10% of Library Reference Books

Beginning today, the EMC Library has on display an exhibition featuring reference books and perodicals that are not in the Library.

These are volumes that have been removed from the open shelves in the Reference Room and the Periodicals Reading Room by library users and have not been returned.

The inventory of the bound volumes in the Periodicals Reading Room for 1957-58 showed twenty-nine volumes to be missing. (Two came back after the inventory was taken.) The figure for 1956-57 was twenty-three.

During the 1952-53 school year, the reference books were reclassified and reorganized to make the entire collection available on open shelves in the Reference Room. Volumes lost since that time have been recorded as follows:

1953-54	52
1954-55	52
1955-56	42
1956-57	47
1957-58	91 (10% of the total reference collection) These figures are based on inventories taken in June of each year and represent the books considered to be permanent losses; short-term removals during the school year are not included.

Over one-third of the ninety-one volumes are in the area of literature, the languages, and authorship. Eight atlases have been lost.

Comedy, Tragedy, Farce Open Theater Season

A comedy, a tragedy, and a farce are being prepared to open the EMC Players' theater season on October 30.

The bill of three one-act plays includes "Aria Da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay, "The End of the Beginning" by Sean O'Casey, and "The Happy Journey" by Thorton Wilder.

In the O'Casey production, Richard Thiede and Peter Saputo are working out a song and dance routine about what happens between a girl and boy "Down yonder where the bees are hummin' an' the wild flowers gaily growin'."

Director Ronald Muchnick of "The Happy Journey" claims that he has been releasing "actor inhibitions" in an attempt to make the happy journey from Cambden to Trenton especially delightful.

"Aria Da Capo" is progressing, but the prop master, Cameron Hudson wishes to send out an urgent plea to "anyone who has a spare vinaigrette handy."

Individual reserved seats for productions will go on sale at the McKenny Hall information desk on Monday, October 27.

TICKET EXCHANGE NOW

Those who hold season tickets for EMC player's productions are reminded to mail in their coupons immediately in order to reserve seats in time for the one-act plays.

Candidates From All Parties to Share Speakers' Platform Here Wednesday

Five diverse viewpoints — ranging from Democrats and Republicans to Socialists and Prohibitionists — will be represented at a special election forum for EMC students next Wednesday evening at McKenny Hall.

The big pre-election rally will hear candidates for Michigan and national offices of the Democratic, Republican, Socialist Workers, Socialist Labor, and Prohibition Parties. All of these parties won a place on the Michigan ballot this year.

Tentatively lined up as speakers are Republican incumbent Congressman George Meader; his Democratic opponent from this district, Robert Hall; Evelyn Sell, Socialist Workers Party candidate for U. S. Senator; Ralph Muncy, Socialist Labor Party candidate for Governor; and Paul Kenworthy, Prohibition Party candidate for Wayne County Clerk.

This is the first time that all five parties have been together on the same platform in this area. Each candidate will be given ten minutes to speak.

A question and answer period for the audience will follow the formal talks.

All EMC students, faculty members and other interested persons are invited to attend the gathering. There is no admission charge.

Sponsors of the event are the Young Democrats, and the program will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. in the General Lounge at McKenny Hall. Because of limited seating, interested persons have been advised to arrive early.

EDITORIAL . . .

Several years ago, the EMC library greatly increased its usefulness to the student body by placing the collection of reference books on open shelves. These volumes had previously been kept in locked cases and could be secured only with the aid of a librarian.

As a result of this service, a certain number of valuable books have disappeared each year. During the 1958-59 school year, 91 volumes — ten per cent of the total reference collection — were apparently stolen by students.

Estimating the value in dollars of the lost material is difficult. A missing volume from the Encyclopedia Americana or the beautiful Great Books of the Western World impairs the usefulness of the entire set. And, of course, many volumes are irreplaceable.

Another irreplaceable loss is 29 volumes of bound periodicals which were removed during the past year. This represents a loss of the original cost of the magazines and the cost of the binding, and causes an unfillable gap in the periodicals collection.

Other books which remain in the library have been mutilated by having pages or articles removed, thus decreasing their reference value.

The persons who helped themselves to property belonging to the State of Michigan committed a crime. They also caused a hardship for their fellow students and put an unnecessary burden on the library budget.

The library could lock up the books again. Or it could arrange a turnstile system, and maintain it at great cost, so that each of us could be searched upon leaving the building.

The staff is not anxious to do either of these things. Is it too much to ask of a group of students, many of whom plan to teach the citizens of tomorrow, that they respect public property and consider the rights of others?

Deaf Teaching Clinic Set For Rackham

A special three day workshop designed to give teachers in training valuable insight in the teaching of language to the deaf has been planned by the Rackham School at EMC for October 27-29.

Dr. Mildred A. Groht, former principal and supervisor of teaching of the Lexington School for the Deaf in New York, will serve as a consultant for the entire series.

Teaching demonstrations and discussion periods will be held October 27 and 29, while a dinner meeting and a talk open to the public will be held October 28. Reservations for the dinner must be made October 24. They may be made with Prof. Calvin W. Fulton of the Special Education Department.

VETS TO MEET

A meeting for the students interested in forming a Veteran's Association at EMC will be held in McKenny Hall's Alumni Lounge on October 30 at 8:00 p.m.

Kappa Delta Pi Begins New Program

Editor's Note: This article is one of a series on student activities and organizations at EMC.

by Jeri Madalinski

Pi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi is the honorary education fraternity at EMC. This organization, which selects members of junior and senior standing, places emphasis on high professional and intellectual standards by selecting its membership on the basis of high scholastic standing and accomplishment in educational work.

Kappa Delta Pi has functioned almost without alteration for thirty-four years. This year, however, it has a new executive structure and an active program which is being initiated by this executive board.

The board is composed of the following officers who were elected last year: president, Stuart Choate; vice-president, Ruth Boyce; secretary, Marietta Velky; treasurer, Arlene Muir; and historian-reporter, Sharon Fleishmann.

The above mentioned members serve on the executive board along with Prof. Calvin Michael, Jane Fueskin, Joyce Phye, Phyllis Granata, Arlois MacLay, and Beverley Lewis.

The new program consists of plans for a joint meeting with the student NEA on November 5, to discuss the problems and possible solutions of intergroup education on this campus.

A long term project centered on Eastern's student teaching program is another item on Kappa Delta's agenda to be worked out with the student NEA.

Prof. Charles A. Rice of the education department spoke to a group of Kappa Delta Pi members on Tuesday regarding the good points and the shortcomings of our student teaching program as compared with systems in various other schools.

Letters to the Editor

Classroom Clocks

To The Editor:

There is a question that has been on my mind for some time now. Why are we students kept completely ignorant of the time of day in many of our classrooms?

Yes, it's a fact that many of our classrooms are not equipped with such a standard piece of equipment as a wall clock. This may seem like a trivial matter to most students, but to those of us who cannot afford a wrist watch this is a grave problem.

We ordinarily don't care what time it is in class. However, how often have we non-wrist watch owners been in the act of writing an exam, completely unaware of the time? We vainly scan the wall for a glimpse at a clock. Then in the distance a chime is heard, and we suddenly realize that there is but five minutes left, and we are on question forty-seven of a one hundred question exam.

This is a harrowing experience, to say the least. Now one might say, why not ask the student next to you the time at certain intervals during the exam? Unfortunately most instructors would incorrectly interpret this gesture as some mild form of cheating. He might even deprive the student of the pleasure of finishing the exam.

It seems to me that it wouldn't be asking to much to request that these "clockless" rooms be embellished with some form of a wall time piece. It's a mighty secure feeling to know that the correct time can easily be determined just by glancing up at the wall. I'm sure that many others feel as I do about this problem, and that we have a legitimitate complaint.

Respectfully yours,
Dick McGrath

New Courses

To the Editor:

It is universally agreed that a student's years spent in college should develop him professionally, culturally, spiritually and socially to take his proper place in society.

The physical education program of any college should, through instruction and participation, aid in the social development of the student providing him the opportunity to acquire new skills and perfect those already developed. Eastern Michigan College has a well rounded program of varsity and intra mural athletics. However, I feel that the activity courses for men not majoring in physical education are inadequate both in variety and level of instruction.

In comparison with other Michigan colleges, Eastern is one of the few not offering courses, at the beginning level, in golf, tennis and fly and bait casting.

For example, Central Michigan College offers, at beginning level, complete courses in fly and bait casting, swimming, tennis, golf, archery, tap and character dancing, folk dancing, bowling, diving and feature swimming, modern dancing, badminton, social dancing and rifle marksmanship.

The University of Michigan expands this list to include self-defense, softball, fencing, trampoline, squash, weight lifting, ice skating and square and social dancing.

Many of these activities are of great benefit as healthful recreational outlets, in that once an individual masters the fundamentals he can participate throughout most of his active life.

I feel that Eastern Michigan College could greatly improve its physical education program by offering, at least, golf, tennis and fly and bait casting at beginning levels.

Sincerely,
William H. Rector

Homecoming, Once "Gala Day," Celebrated Here for 38 Years

by Barbara Clarkson

Homecoming, one of the major events here at Eastern Michigan College, seems to have a history that dates back to about 1920.

In that year, the festivities which we now call homecoming were called Gala Day. This day was staged as the climax of a series of Men's Union activities in connection with football. It featured a parade with floats, a bonfire, and a dance.

By 1922, Gala Day had become an annual affair and was growing in importance. The college paper suggested that all loyal supporters turn out dressed in green and white.

The title of homecoming was coined for these festivities in 1923. That year saw high school cross country competition as part of the entertainment. Soon after this, class games came into the picture — class games that caused freshmen and sophomores to clash.

In 1926 the college paper, then the Normal College News, ran a banner headline announcing Homecoming and also advertised first and second prizes for the best-decorated houses.

In 1927, Campus Night added to the celebration. This featured a dinner with the team and its coaches at which most of the sororities and fraternities were represented.

Various new features characterized Homecoming through the years. Alumni began to have class reunions, special entertainment was often imported, slogan contests which included such items as "Swing and Sway the Ypsi Way," or Don't Be a Slacker, Be a Backer!" were conducted.

More recently, one of the main attractions of Homecoming has been the election of the queen and her court who reign over the big event. This tradition appears to have begun about 1948.

With the first annual Chic's Relays, held this year, a new tradition has been added to the long list which has accumulated over the years.

Stoic Open House

The Stoic Society — which this year is celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of being founded as EMC's oldest honorary scholastic society — will hold its annual open house next Wednesday afternoon.

Sophomores who have a cumulative average scholastically of 3.00 or above are eligible to be be considered for membership in the honor group.

The open house will be held in Starkweather Hall from 4:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Cider and donuts will be served.

Those students eligible to attend will be receiving special invitations this weekend.

ROTC Review Will Honor Top Cadets

EMC Students enrolled in the ROTC program here and who have qualified for the distinguished military student medals will be honored next Thursday, October 30, at Briggs Field with a review.

President Elliott will be present at the 3:00 p.m. ceremony to award the medals to the following: Cadet Col. Thornbury; Cadet Captains Lewis Whitaker, Carl Simmons, Lloyd Otto, Lynn Niendorf, John Thurman, John Malone, Joe Rippetoe, Robert Mason; and Cadet First Lieutenants David Dee, Richard Falk, Charles Hall, Wayne Rickard and Richard Santer.

The awards are based on cadets' performance in the military science department, their academic record, and ROTC summer camp. All students and faculty members are invited to attend the review and presentation.

Bulletin Board

Discussion Festival Here On October 31

A Dictrict Discussion Festival for high school debaters will be held on Friday, October 31, at 1:30 p.m., at McKenny Hall.

Seven high schools—Huron High, Flat Rock, Adrian, Morenci, Northville, Wayne, Ypsilanti, and Willow Run—will participate in two rounds of discussion on the problem: "What Can Be Done To Improve the American Educational System?"

Alton Helms, senior and president of the EMC chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, will be co-ordinator of the discussion.

This will be the first of five high school discussions held on our campus this semester, and EMC students may attend.

Announce ROTC Corps

The EMC Department of Military Science has announced the organization of the EMC ROTC corps for 1958-1959. A brigade composed of three battle groups, with two companies per battle group, will make up the corps.

Brigade commander this year is Cadet Colonel Thornbury. His staff consists of executive officer Cadet Capt. Whitaker, S-1 Cadet Capt. Simmons, S-2 Cadet Capt. Otto; S-3 Cadet Capt. Mason, and S-4, Cadet Capt. Redick.

The commander of the first Battle Group is Cadet Capt. Niendorf, the 2nd Battle Group is commanded by Cadet Capt. Thurman, and Cadet Capt. Malone commands the 3rd Battle Group.

Movie Premiered for Munson Hall Men

Homecoming weekend saw the premiere of "The Great Munsonians," a 25-minute color film made by residents of John M. Munson residence hall.

The movie was shown three times to parents during the hall's open house celebration, and subsequent showings were given for students.

The film was written and produced by Leonard Dinkin and Greg Surdacki.

Chest X-Rays Offered

Free chest x-rays sponsored by the National Tuberculosis Association will be given at the Wuerth Theater daily from 10:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. beginning November 5 through 12.

The association will also sponsor x-rays at the following locations: Milan, November 13; Saline, November 14; Ann Arbor, November 17 - 21; Manchester, November 24; Chelsea, November 25; and Dexter, November 26.

Meet the Hurons

by Bob Quick

John Malone — This bone-crushing fullback from Lincoln High in Van Dyke is one of the mainstays on Coach Trosko's present Huron eleven. Being six feet and 190 pounds makes John a hard man to bring down when he is smashing through the defensive secondary. He is also quite an effective blocker, often springing team-mates loose for substantial gains.

John was a four letter man in High School. He earned monograms in football, track, basketball, and baseball.

A physical education major and an active member of Kappa Phi Alpha social fraternity, John is also a Captain in the ROTC advanced course.

According to John, this year's team is very good, as it is a steady and dependable group with lots of desire and a great deal of will to win. The big rough line is in the main responsible for John's praise of the current Hurons.

As for the game Saturday with Southern Illinois, he thinks that the team will be ready and will play their usual heads up ball game.

Jack Gerson — Seeing Jack among some of the giants on Eastern's football team, one would logically expect that he was more likely to be a student manager than an outstanding player.

But once the little man is in a green and white uniform, he's one of the shiftiest and most elusive backs in the IIAC. Since he is merely 5'4" tall and weighs only 148 pounds, Jack must compensate for his lack of power by using his speed and broken field running to its greatest extreme. This he has been doing admirably.

Jack is single, 19 years old and a business administration major who says that he thinks this is one of the Hurons' best teams.

He thinks that Saturday's game will be a really rough one, but predicts that we will come out on top. If he remains the breakaway threat which he has in previous contests, the Salukis will have a hard time stopping one Mr. Gerson.

Basketball Draws 40 Prospects

Head basketball coach Jim Skala welcomed some forty prospects to his opening day practice session last week. Returning are some nine varsity men led by captain and last season's most valuable player Charles Crickmore.

Other veterans returning are Dick Bearup, guard, Owosso; Jim Davidson, forward, Milford; Don Greene, guard, Detroit; Dick Hutchinson, guard, Ann Arbor; Fred Ireland, center, Flint; Tom MacKenzie, forward-center, Ypsilanti; Frank Manley, guard, Flint and Rod Treais, forward from Pontiac.

Skala is taking a serious look at several rookies and two returning veterans who may be able to help the Hurons this season. Looking very good thus far has been Fred Woelffer, 6'5" forward from Crystal Falls, Dale Perkay, six foot guard from Morroco, Ind., and Owen Sudman, 6'7" center from Owosso.

Both Woelffer and Perkey are first semester freshmen while Sudman is a returning serviceman. Sudman played first string center on Eastern's topnotch 1952-53 quintet and will undoubtably be of great assistance to the squad this season.

Also returning to action in January will be Bill Stevens, who played first string ball during the 1956-57 season. Stevens entered the University of Michigan for one semester but returned to Eastern Michigan for the spring semester last year. He will thus be eligible for second semester competition.

HURON HIGHLIGHTS

by Bill Forster

Saturday, October 19, the EMC football eleven came out on the winning end of a quite sloppily played ballgame. The Hurons defeated an anemic looking bunch of Eastern Illinois Panthers in the Homecoming game, 31-0.

Rather than indicating any real strength on the part of the Hurons the outcome merely points out the weaknesses of the Eastern Illinois squad — a poor defense and a poorer offense.

The simple fact that the Panthers had a negative forty-seven yards rushing indicates their offensive weakness. Of course, one only need look at the final score to note what type of defense was possessed by Eastern Illinois.

EMC did unveil a surprisingly strong passing attack and at times showed flashes of real power in her running game. However, as in previous contests, the best offensive weapon for the Hurons was the defense. Best illustration of this was shown in the scoring of the first two Eastern Michigan touchdowns. A fumble recovery paved the way to the first counter, after a booming "coffin-corner" punt by Dave Longridge which went out-of-bounds on the one yard line; and Jack Gerson's beautiful punt return, which was accompanied by some fine blocking, was responsible for the second marker.

Despite the fact that the Huron offense accounted for 315 yards gained passing and running, most of this total was accumulated in the middle of the "gridiron". Nevertheless, the Hurons did score on two sustained marches of fifty-eight and sixty-eight yards for their third and forth counters. However, this merely shows that the Eastern Illinois line was brutally worn down by the relentless ferocity of the Huron stalwarts.

It is quite evident that if the Eastern Michigan backfield unit is able to mobilize for a couple of touchdowns per contest, the Huron opponents will be plagued with a dark vision of a defeat staring them in the face throughout the rest of the year. In fact, one individual has conjectured that an institution a few miles down Washtenaw Street may desire to exchange lines with the Hurons before the season's end.

The four finalists in the all-campus tennis tournament are Dick Schakel, Pete Gallager, Leigh Moore, and Dave Prakken.

Les femmes fatales took over the intramural highlights last Monday at the highly successful Chic's Relays. The big spectacle was held behind the tennis courts despite dreary weather and attracted a good sized crowd.

The sororities finished in this order: Alpha Xi Delta with 23 points being the victors, Alpha Kappa Alpha was second with 12 points, and the Tri Sigs and Pi Kappa Sigma sororities tied for third and fourth with 11 points. Thus it is now up to the Alpha Xi's to try to win the coveted 24" trophy two more times in a row in order to gain permanent possession.

Harriers Continue March to IIAC Title

Avenging last season's defeat by Central Michigan, Eastern's cross country team downed the Chips 25-31 in Mt. Pleasant last Saturday.

Mauri Joramakka finished first in the meet. Gurney Beach and Doug Carroll came in third and fourth, respectively, for the Hurons.

So far, the squad has shown much more depth this season. The main difficulty still facing Coach George Marshall lies in bringing up a good fifth man; however, several of the freshmen runners look promising.

The Hurons will entertain the University of Miami and Central State, both Ohio schools, at the Washtenaw Country Club October 25. This is the last regulation contest before the IIAC meet.

The squad is looking forward to the conference meet as they would like to recapture the league championship, which Eastern lost for the first time in seven years last season.

Hurons Face SIU Salukis In IIAC Showdown for Second

The Hurons of Eastern Michigan College will take the long journey to Carbondale, Illinois, this weekend for an IIAC game with the Salukis of S. I. U.

The Southern contingent last weekend fell before a revived Illinois Normal squad 21-8, but coach Fred Trosko is warning the Huron squad to pay little attention to the scores of late. Scores mean little when two clubs tied for second place honors meet.

Southern has been suffering from severe injuries and had some 15 men sidelined going into the game with Illinois Normal. Benched were halfback Carver Shannon, the real leader of the Saluki backfield, and quarterback Bill Norwood. Captain Cecil Hart also was slightly injured, but is expected to be ready this Saturday. Shannon may still be out of action.

The Southern squad has topped Evansville and West Virginia in non-conference competition while defeating Western Illinois and Eastern Illinois in league play. Their only loss came at the hands of Illinois Normal last week.

Eastern Michigan will again depend on its defense to hold the Southern scoring down while, at the same time, attempting to roll up enough points to take over undisputed possession of second place. In three league games thus far, the opposition has scored only seven points, with all seven coming in a losing effort against Central Michigan two weeks ago. In comparison, Eastern has rolled up 50 points—good enough for a 2-1 league record.

Coach Trosko's defense remains the marvel of conference play as one team after another has found it tough to penetrate. Only Hope College has scored more than 12 points against the Hurons. They rolled up 19 points in the opening contest, although two of those touchdowns came as a result of fumbles on the part of EMC.

Eastern's offensive squad was jarred this week by the loss of 200 pound fullback Al Day who quit the squad for personal reasons. Day was a converted from the end position and was showing good running potential in a heavy backfield combination of John Malone, Day and Brian Dunn.

Trosko will still be attempting to come up with a really dangerous offensive squad. Fumbles have been his chief worry as the Hurons have fumbled some 13 times in the past two contests. In all, the Hurons should be more than ready this coming weekend.

EMC Library Books Stolen

Twenty volumes are from sets of books, such as the Encyclopedia Americana, World Book Encyclopedia, Great Books of the Western World, New York Theatre Critics' Reviews, Current Biography, the Cambridge History of American Literature, and the Cambridge History of English Literature. To date, the Library has ordered replacements for twenty volumes; four of the ninety-one books missing in June have been returned.

In addition to the volumes that are missing, other reference books and periodicals have had pages removed from them. While the extent of this activity within the Library cannot, of course, be completely recorded, there is evidence that it is rampant. During the past year, nineteen instances of mutilated periodicals were called to the attention of the library staff.

Known cases of mutilated reference books include the Oxford English Dictionary (first six pages of the Preface), the Dictionary of American Biography (Alexander Hamilton), the Encyclopaedia Britannica (plates and articles on architecture and sculpture, from two volumes), and the School and Library Atlas of the World (United States highway map and mileage table).

The exhibits on missing and mutilated periodicals and reference books will be on display on the first floor of the Library building for one week.

Omega Phi Alpha Holds Open House Wednesday

The campus' newly organized service sorority, Omega Phi Alpha, will hold open house next Wednesday, October 29, at Starkweather Hall from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

All interested students, including first semester freshmen, are welcome to attend. Refreshments will be served. Apparel has been described as "dressy."

Schedule Debate Tourney

This term's first off-campus novice debate tournament will be held at Albion College on Saturday, November 15.

The event is sponsored by the Michigan Inter-Collegiate Speech League, which consists of thirteen participating colleges. Teams for this tournament will be chosen this week.

NEA Has Panel Discussion

"What Makes a Good Teacher?" will be the topic of a panel discussion sponsored by the Student N. E. A. Tuesday, October 28, in the Women's Lounge of McKenny Hall.

The discussion will begin at 7:30 p.m., with Joyce Phy, vice president of the NEA chapter, as panel moderator. Panel members include Dr. Evard Ardis, superintendent of schools in Ypsilanti; Miss Sally Petros, supervising teacher at Lincoln Consolidated School; and Beverly Manning, student teacher at Plymouth Senior High School.

All students and faculty may attend the meeting.
